In everything I do I want to have easy boards that are able to perform at the maximum level, so I use retro ideas and the modernity of the most innovative technology in surfboards industry, the CFD, Computational Fluid Dynamics. Paddle power, stability and the great feeling that comes from getting in tune very quickly with this shape, is given by the little pulled out nose outline. To fit in all conditions I decided to put an old school higher wing, reduced surface area during manoeuvres with the same outline curve. Rail, rocker, and foil are balanced to have consistency in a wide variety of conditions.

Paddle power, stability combined with a generous sweet spot ensures that Toro is user friendly and is an easy transition from your short board. Surf Toro 1 to 2 inches shorter than your shortboard. The slightly wider nose outline created from the high wing creates stability in smaller weaker waves, while reducing surface area in the tail during turns."
